SNHPC Residential Survey

Single-family homes are the dominant housing type in the SNHPC region. While these types of homes allow the communities to keep their NH character, the physical realities of multi-story, single-family homes can be a barrier to people as they age. SNHPC surveyed residents and found 80% of respondents live in single-family homes, 7% live in multi-family/apartments, 7% live in condos, 4% live in duplexes, and 2% live in mobile homes or other housing types. Residents who attended the community conversations frequently stated they would prefer having housing options close to amenities such as grocery stores and health facilities, as well as having the ability to live in smaller homes.

Housing Options

45% of residents felt that there are no appealing alternatives in their community when either moving into their first home/unit, or downsizing to a smaller home/unit.

In thinking about your future, how likely is it that you will move to a different home outside of this community?

About 30% of millennials said it was extremely likely they would move to a different home outside of their community in the future while 25% of seniors said it was somewhat likely.

When asked what would be the primary reason to move to a different home, millennials mentioned affordability, jobs, schools, community and a sense of place. Seniors discussed topics that were more physical, such as the size of their home, their health, and accessibility.
